Le Château de Mazan

Nestled at the foot of the legendary Mont Ventoux, the Château de Mazan is situated in the charming village of Mazan in the heart of Provence.

This elegant 18th century building is where we will welcome you in a sumptuous setting combining charm and gastronomy.

Built around 1720, the Château was the birthplace of both the father and the uncle (the well known Abbé de Sade) of the legendary Marquis de Sade. Although he spent most of his life in Paris, the latter stayed frequently at the Château de Mazan, where he organized various memorable events, including France's first ever theatrical festival, in 1772.

Nothing could be more delightful than to enjoy a siesta in the shade of the mulberry trees by the rotunda, read a book at the foot of our centuries-old olive tree. The swimming pool, with its natural colours, is a welcome oasis on hot summer days.

31 bedrooms, all different, are located both in the Château and in the outbuilding located on the other side of the little Placette Napoléon.

All of the bedrooms offer individual characteristics, whether it be high ceilings, vast spaces, a clear view over the garden and vineyards, or across the rooftops of the village of Mazan. Particular attention was paid to the ambiance in each of the rooms to ensure softness, serenity and absolute comfort without forgetting a touch of Provençal style with the traditional cicadas.
